

and library information [9]

community of interest, activity, and experience for effectively engaging participants with tools of technology for learning. It offers faculty technology as well as the assistance to use and adapt to technology in the areas of teaching, content tools, media tools, the Web (including social media), utility tools, and other resources. Through individualized assistance as well as training and workshops to help faculty achieve e-

